This page needs new screenshots This application has been enhanced and a re-write is needed for 1.10

This feature is used to let users write notes, save them and use them when they want. The user notepad main screen list the user notes:

Listing notes

The screenshot displays the User Notepad interface. At the top, there is a progress bar labeled 'quota' with a red segment and '5%' indicated. Below this is a search bar with the placeholder text '[Write a note]' and a 'find' button. A table lists the notes with columns for 'del', 'Name', 'Last Modified', and 'Size'. The table contains two entries: 'BuenEstilo (save)' and 'HomePage (save)'. Below the table, it shows 'Page: 1/1' and a link '1'. At the bottom, there is an 'Upload file' section with a text input, a 'Browse...' button, and an 'upload' button.

del	Name	Last Modified	Size
<input type="checkbox"/>	BuenEstilo (save)	26/Mar [01:43 GMT]	734 b
<input type="checkbox"/>	HomePage (save)	26/Mar [01:40 GMT]	621 b

Upload file:

From this screen notes can be removed, notes can be read (clicking the name), notes can be saved to disk or deleted. A find feature is provided to search for notes containing some text. A note can also be uploaded from the local disk using the upload box at the bottom. Note that user notes are always stored in the database. The quota is configured as the same quota used for user files (see user files next)

Writing a note

The image shows a web form with a light beige border. It contains three main elements: a 'Name' label followed by a text input field, a 'Data' label followed by a large text area, and a 'save' button at the bottom left. The form is designed for creating a new note.

Name	<input type="text"/>
Data
<input type="button" value="save"/>

In this screen you can write a new note.

"Young writers often suppose that style is a garnish for the meat of prose, a sauce by which a dull dish is made palatable. Style has no such separate entity; it is nondetachable, unfilterable. The beginner should approach style warily, realizing that it is himself he is approaching, no other; and he should begin by turning resolutely away from all devices that are popularly believed to indicate style--all mannerisms, tricks, adornments. The approach to style is by way of plainness, simplicity, orderliness, sincerity."

"And thus an American textbook, typical required reading for 10th-grade English students, unknowingly extols some virtues of WabiSabi"
