Install

See Mods Admin for instructions on how to install a Mod.

Usage

Once installed, you will see some new lines under the Wiki "edit > wiki help > Show Plugins Help":

```plaintext
{XSPF(song=url_to_mp3,playlist=url_to_xspf_playlist,player=full|slim|button,autoplay=true|false,title=text)}

Info from sourceforce on the player.

from: http://musicplayer.sourceforge.net/#download have no idea if the wikiplugin is supporting these.

parameters:

- playlist_url: the url of the xspf file to load
- autoplay: boolean value that make the music start without the initial user click
- autoload: boolean value that make the playlist load without the initial user click
- repeat_playlist: boolean value that make the repeats the playlist after the end of the last song
- playlist_size: number of tracks to limit
- player_title: the text to replace the players default's
- info_button_text: the text to display on the info link, see this page
- radio_mode: boolean value, if true tells the player that the last track of playlist is in real a new playlist
- location: more info
The music player can also be used to play single mp3 files instead of playlists, the parameters are:
- `song_url` : the url of the single mp3 you want to play
- `song_title` : the text to replace the players default’s

If you want to use the button player, there is a test page to custom the button and generate the html code.

Example

If this Mod is related to a plugin, the following code,

```xml
{XSPF(song=url_to_mp3,playlist=url_to_xspf_playlist,player=full|slim|button,autoplay=true|false,title=text)}{XSPF}
```

Would produce:
