Hey, if anybody interested in the open e-democracy (or similar) system... please, feel free to join the tutorial! (some people form <http://unitedindividuals.org>) want to show funda raisers that Tikiwiki might be the right solution to start with....

Marc (Laporte), weren't you supporting some open democracy system? (using 1.10?)

Not really. But I am very interested and I am ready to invest in such a system. It would be nice to have a voting system or plug into an external voting system.

I would like a system to be used on *.tikiwiki.org to get feedback from the community.

Something like this:

Shouldn't this page be at tikiwiki.org (promotion/advocacy site) rather than doc.tw.o (documentation site)? I think doc.tw.o should be strictly about how to use Tiki, not about what to use it for (though I agree e-democracy is a good use for it ☐).

└ Well, I understand what you mean: I set that page there since it's intended to be a kind of tutorial, and I saw that there is a section of Tutorials... (using backlink feature, as I did)

But if most of people considers that it should go to tw.o, I'll move it there...

More opinions?

Should we had a free section called Tutorials, made in a Wiki Way here on doc.tw.o, or in tw.o?
